JUNNY Ann Hibbert [JUNNY] is a Jamaican-born, Harlem-based fashion designer who creates bold, size-inclusive clothing. She is known for her use of bold colors, prints, and textures, and her collections have been praised for their joyful and empowering Spirit. JUNNY started her career as a fashion designer after getting downsized from her job as an ESPN sales executive. She quickly gained a following for her unique designs, and in 2021 she debuted her first collection at New York Fashion Week. The collection was a critical success, and JUNNY was named one of the top emerging talents of the year by W Magazine. In 2023, JUNNY was awarded the Visa She's Next in Fashion Grant, which recognizes and supports women entrepreneurs in the fashion industry. She is also a vocal advocate for diversity and inclusion in the fashion industry, and she is committed to creating clothing that makes everyone feel confident and beautiful. JUNNY's work has been featured in publications such as Essence, New York Times, Wall Street Journal, W Mag, WWD, and Vanity Fair. She is a talented designer and a role model for women everywhere.
